Public Land Sale

The Secretary of the Interior has authorized the public sale at Willits, California, commencing at 10 o'clock A. M., on AUGUST 29, 1916, of the undisposed of lands in the Round Valley Indian Reservation, California, under the act of February 8, 1905 (33 Stat., 706).

The lands are located in Mendocino and Trinity counties, California, in the San Francisco and Eureka Land districts, and have an aggregate of 44,106.73, which have been appraised at $56,230.79. The lands have been arranged in 302 blocks, having an average of 146 acres in each block. The lands are to be sold at not less than the appraised price in the manner in which they have been blocked out, though the Superintendent of Sale may first offer less than an entire block. Purchasers will be required to pay at least one-third down, the balance in equal annual installments, with interest at 5 per cent per annum on deferred payments, in addition to commissions.

No limit is fixed as to the amount of land any one person may buy, and no showing will be required as to age, citizenship, residence, cultivation or improvements.

The lands are in general mountainous, with several small valleys, and are almost entirely covered with brush and timber. The timber, aside from madrona, consists of oaks, valuable only for firewood, and conifers, of doubtful economic value.

The country is well adapted by nature to almost any kind of agricultural use.

ONLY ONE ROAD TO SUCCESS

Choose Your Work According to Your Qualifications and Have Confidence in Your Ability.

The woman who believes in herself can accomplish things that to her timid-minded sister would be impossible. Perhaps nowhere is confidence so essential as in the business world, and the girl or woman who aspires to a business career, yet has no confidence in her ability to succeed, had better seek some other means of livelihood.

A seemingly impossible task may confront one, but should the person to whom such a task falls lose confidence the result nine times out of ten is failure. Most difficulties are difficulties on the surface only. Confidence, grit and common sense are a trio that cannot be beaten. Why not apply a generous application of all three to the difficulty which looms up before you and make you faint hearted and almost helpless?

The most successful people in all lines of human endeavor are, as a rule, people who believe in themselves. Many of these people have few advantages, but by sheer will power—confidence in their ability—they succeed. Confidence is needed more today than ever before.

It's an old saw, and a true one, that "you cannot fit a square peg into a round hole." Many women are doing, or trying to do, work for which they are not fitted. The girl who has an aptitude for sewing, can blend colors harmoniously and knows what good lines are, should never be advised to study stenography. Such a girl would develop into a first-class dressmaker, but as a stenographer she would never reach a very high standard.

Such women—the right women in the wrong work—always lack confidence; yet the wise person will study her qualifications, and if she finds herself not equal to the work she has accepted, will try to secure a position suited to her ability.

Most of us can do something fairly well, and if we find the work congenial, the only logical course to follow is to bring our very best efforts into that work, and we must believe in ourselves if the work is to be done smoothly and well.

Study your ability; improve; believe in yourself, and you will surely succeed. Women who have confidence are generally successful and happy women. We all want to be both. From past experience you know how doubt has retarded your ability. Then use will power—believe in yourself, and life will be worth while.—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Fish Got Lighted Cigar.

Not only are the pickerel biting ravenously at Little Creek pond, in Sussex county, N. J., but it was discovered recently that these big fellows have formed a bad habit calling for the corrective activities of our own Doctor Pease.

John Avery, a cigarmaker; Edward Martin, Jr., and Louis Rumsley, all of Union Hill, went to the pond the other day to fish. They had just cut a hole in the ice and were baiting their hooks when Avery accidentally dropped a lighted and salt-smoked cigar into the hole.

Instantly, he said, a big pickerel shot to the surface and gulped the cigar. A moment later Mr. Avery dropped his hook and line into the hole and in a few seconds there was a violent tugging at the line. He pulled, and out came a pickerel almost a yard long.

As Mr. Avery started to pry his hook from the big fellow's mouth he said he found his half-smoked cigar, still lighted, in the pickerel's mouth. Mr. Martin and Mr. Rumsley confirmed Mr. Avery's narrative, except they weren't certain the cigar was lighted.—New York Herald.

War Raises Drug Prices.

The big war in Europe is helping to make it costly, if not criminal, to be ill these days. The proverbial ounce of prevention is not only better than a pound of cure, but it is a hundred times cheaper. The war has added from 25 to 300 per cent to the consumer's cost of these drugs, and many of them—entirely disappeared from the market—cannot be obtained at any price. In many instances no sign of lower prices appears. In others there is certainty that diminishing supply must result in the most outlandish price figures. Factors in staple drugs affected by the war are, they insist, endeavoring to conserve the limited quantities they have by fixing prohibitive figures—not for the purpose of gouging the consumer, but to make it possible to hold on to enough of the precious products to supply emergencies. Veronal, its solutions and compounds has almost disappeared from the market, and antipyrin, to be had in only moderate quantities, has advanced from 35 cents to $5 per ounce.

A Clincher.

"I have here," said the book agent "a set of books which should be in every home."

"Not in this one," snapped the man of the house. "I have no time for reading and I hate the very sight of a book agent."

"Then these books are the very things you need. Just think how handy they'll be to throw at the next book agent that comes along."

AUSTRIAN TROOPS IN THE TYROL ALPS

This remarkable photograph just received, shows the Austrian troops on the peaks of the great range of mountains where the Italians and Austrian troops are engaged. Back Yards Show Character

By SAMUEL G. DIXON, M. D.
Commissioner of Health of Pennsylvania

Bret Harte once wrote a story in which he pointed out that for an insight into the occupant's true character one must look at the back and not at the front of a man's house.

Here was knowledge of human nature. If we want to estimate character accurately we must have an all-around view and not accept face values.

This brings us again to the question of back yards. Is yours as clean and well kept as you can make it, or is it littered with trash, cans, kindling and other rubbish? Is the garbage and waste properly covered and free from flies? Is the stable and outhouse a fly-breeding center for the neighborhood? You have work ahead for you for your health's sake and for the sake of decency if any of these conditions exist.

It is a privilege to have a back yard, even a small one. There are thousands of dwellers in cities where land is sold by the square foot, who yearn for a little space to call their own. Those who are so fortunate as to have back yards should care for them and make use of them.

If there are children in the family the back yard should be their playground. A doll house, turning pole, a swing or a tent will provide almost unlimited entertainment and help to keep children off the streets.

If there are no children in the family, a shovel, a rake, a hoe and a moderate-sized back-yard garden should afford a reasonable amount of healthful exercise combined with pleasure and profit.

Under the Country Sky.

Tenderly sweet the days go by,
Lovingly still are the nights that flow

Under the spell of the country sky
Far in a land of Long Ago.
Stars and moon and the silver lake,
Hills and vales and the sparkling sun—

Under the country sky, oh make
Heart and the soul of us one and one!

Noise and hatred and all things vile
Sink and fade as the hours go by;
Dreams at the gates of the valley smile

Under the spell of the country sky.
Whistle of quail where the young wheat swings,
A hermit thrush in the western wood—

Love in the gates of the valley sings,
And the spell of the country sky is good.

Wandering winds from the balmy south,

Fairy feet on the hills go by;
Love with a red rose in her mouth,
Under the spell of the country sky.

Keep me tight in your arms of rest,
Oh quiet land of the dreams of men—
The grassy hill and the valley's breast,
And the spell of the country sky again.

—Folger McKinsey in Baltimore Sun.

SCIENTISTS MAY TALK TO OTHER PLANETS IN FUTURE

Interstellar Wireless Communication
Not an Impossibility, in the Opinion of Astronomers.

That interstellar wireless communication may be a possibility of the future is a belief now held by not a few scientists.

M. Guzman has promised to pay $20,000 to the astronomer who first establishes communication with any planet or star other than Mars.

M. Guzman's elimination of Mars as a wireless station in the competition he is promoting is based upon his belief that experiments made by American astronomers in Arizona prove that a wireless expert who talked with the Martians would be overpaid if he received 100,000 francs. This performance, to his mind, is too easy, too lacking in romantic and sensational features to be worthy of the modest fortune he has dedicated to science.

But, if the Martians have learned how to build canals without inviting landslides, have made of irrigation processes an exact science, and have, as various authorities contend, learned how to fly by their own motive power, there are numberless specialists in this country who would be pleased to call them up by long distance at once.

Famous War Horses of Old Replaced by Automobiles

One probable result of the introduction of mechanical vehicles into warfare will be the abolition of the old custom of cherishing the memory of famous war horses. When generals conducted campaigns on horseback, before the advent of the field motor car, their favorite chargers used to receive many honors.

Wellington's famous charger, Copenhagen, when he died was buried with full military honors. The Iron Duke's horse was a magnificent chestnut, and he carried his master many hundreds of miles in Spain, and at the battle of Toulouse.

The remains of Napoleon's white stallion, Marengo, are preserved at the Royal United Service Institution, while another of Bonaparte's steeds, which he purchased at St. Helena, and bore the name of King George, figures in many famous paintings.

The horse which Lord Ronald rode in the Balaklava charge was cherished by his family until its death, when a tombstone was erected over its grave.

Traveler, which gained fame in the Civil war as the favorite charger of Gen. Robert E. Lee, is now a popular exhibit in a museum at Virginia, its skeleton having been carefully preserved in a glass case.

Some Things That Are New.

To facilitate night photography a flashlight gun has been invented that operates a camera shutter at the instant the light is at its brightest.

According to a Vienna throat specialist yawning is a beneficial exercise as it brings all the respiratory muscles of the throat and chest into action.

Polarizing apparatus has been invented in Germany for examining glass intended for scientific purposes for defects due to improper or irregular cooling.

The principle of the spring shade roller has been employed in a device that almost automatically keeps men's idle neckties clean and smooth.

Most of the carpets made in India are woven by boys, who are told by men watching them how many knots of each color to tie to the warp, a single row at a time.

Individual fenders for each front wheel of a motorbus, so mounted as to always be in position for use, have been invented by a resident of London.

Sleeping car berths have been invented with end sections that can be lifted to give occupants room enough to stand erect when undressing or dressing.

To enable a man to work in smoke or gas for a short time there has been invented a combination mask and hat, the latter acting as a fresh-air reservoir.

MINE USED AS A BUOY

This German mine, intercepted on the Tigris river, is being used as a buoy by the British.

Unique Document.

In the "American Magazine" Prof. Charles Downer Hazen tells some ludicrous incidents of the Franco-Prussian war, describing a document that is a modern curiosity:

"Cohesion was lacking, as were numbers," he says. "Many generals were sent to command troops with which they were entirely unacquainted."

"Not only soldiers, but sometimes generals went astray, unable to find their places. 'Have arrived at Belfort,' telegraphed General Michel on July 21, 'can't find my brigade; can't find the general of the division. What shall I do? Don't know where my regiments are.' This document is probably unique in military records. Another general hunted for his artillery staff; another for a cavalry corps which did not exist."

Whiskers and Corsets.

Patience—I see that the first baby born in Lorraine, O., will receive from merchants of the town gifts including a theater pass for life and corsets or barber service for life, as the case may be.

Patrice—it would be awful if the baby should cling to the corsets and decide to let the whiskers grow.

In These Days.

Wife—You say you saw Miss Pickering walking on the avenue. What did she have on?

Husband—I can't recall.

Wife—Well, she must have had on something.

Husband—Quite possible, my dear; I probably overlooked it.—Life.

STAR OF FILMDOM

Lillian Gish.

Popular actress who has reached high place in the movie world.

War Brings Inventions.

The perils of scouting and reconnoitering during the present war have caused the Germans to devise a pocket flashlight which is less dangerous to use than the type employed early in the war, which shed its rays straight ahead and so attracted the enemy's fire. This new lamp has a hood so designed that the incandescent bulb, the lens and the reflector all move in unison when the hood is raised or lowered. It can be hung from the belt or held on the breast by a loop on the coat.

Another type of light, for officers' use, includes a compass in a recess below the bulb and also dividers, fire-making equipment, maps and dispatch tablets, for all of which a special compartment is provided. By dropping the compass from the recess into a horizontal position it is clearly lighted by the lamp. The cover of the compartment holding the maps, etc., when thrown back, partly shields the bulb's eye.

Where Aristocrats Shine.

Your aristocrat is doubtless often a very objectionable person and in a Democratic country like this we affect to turn up our noses at him and regard him as a cumber of the earth. Yet it must be said for him that worthless as he may be in peace, and contrary as his claims of superiority may be to all proper principles of natural equality, he rarely, almost never, fails to give a good account of himself when his country needs him in a great crisis. In the French revolution the old nobility of France showed the world that they knew how to die if they did not know how to live. And the casualty lists which are being published in London now prove once more that when it comes to courage and patriotism the "aristocrat" is seldom found in the rear. At the rate at which the aristocrats are being killed at the front in France and Belgium there will be no "lords and gentlemen" left in Great Britain if the war lasts much longer. If all the "common" people in England were doing as well, there would be no criticism of English patriotism. In spite of their leanings to democracy, American sympathizers with the allies, in view of the prominence of titled names on the honor roll of the dead, might almost be inclined to wish that the entire British nation was composed of aristocrats today. Can it be true after all that there is a real significance in the old phrase—"blood will tell" and "noblesse oblige"?—Baltimore Sun.

SAW DEATH ANGEL

Apparition That Appeared to Royal Children.

Story Related by Governess of Russian Princesses—Czar and Czarina Believe Supernatural Figure Really Was Visible.

Grand Duke Ernest of Hesse had a very pretty little daughter by his first wife, Princess Victoria Melita of Great Britain and Coburg, now married to Grand Duke Cyril of Russia. This little girl's name was Elizabeth, and on account of her beauty and sprightly cleverness she was a universal favorite and the only tie between her parents after the estrangement, F. Cunliffe Owen writes in the New York World.

While staying with her uncle and aunt, the present czar and czarina, at their picturesque country seat in Poland, she succumbed when seven years old to poison—ptomaine poison, according to some, but according to others drugs conveyed into food or drink by the nihilists for the purpose of taking the life of Emperor Nicholas.

A remarkable account of the affair is given by an English woman of the name of Miss Eager, who, after spending a number of years in the service of the emperor and empress of Russia as the nursery governess of their young children, published on her return to England, with the full authority and approval of their majesties, a volume entitled "Six Years at the Court of Russia."

According to her, little Princess Elizabeth, or "Ella," of Hesse was taken ill one afternoon or night and died before the following morning. Between nine o'clock and ten o'clock two of the little girls of the czarina, who were sleeping together in a room adjoining that of their seven-year-old cousin of Hesse, suddenly alarmed every one within hearing by the most frantic screams.

When the empress, Miss Eager and the doctors rushed in they found the two little grand duchesses standing up on their beds, shrieking and shaking with terror. It was some time before they could be soothed, and then they related that they had seen a man with flowing robes and huge wings in their room. While they were still talking the eyes of both children suddenly dilated with terror, and both pointing in the same direction, they cried: "Look! Look! There he is again. He has gone into Ella's room. Oh! Poor Ella! Poor Ella!"

Neither Miss Eager nor the czarina, nor yet the physicians, could see anything. But a few moments later Princess Ella suddenly sat up in her bed, crying: "I am choking. I am choking! Send for mamma!" Three hours afterward the child, who had immediately after the cry for her mother fallen into a state of coma, passed away, in the absence, of course, of her parents.

Miss Eager expressed her firm conviction that the little grand duchesses had seen a supernatural apparition and that the apparition in question was the angel of death. That the czar and czarina shared her impression is shown by the fact that they had authorized her to publish the story in her book, as well as by the circumstance that she retains their favor and good will and is in receipt of an annuity from them for the remainder of her days.

Makes His Money En Route.

A genuine California booster is with us. He is C. F. Langley of Watsonville, Cal., according to an Atlantic City correspondent of the Philadelphia North American.

Mr. Langley is president of the Pajaro Valley National bank in Watsonville, and he puts the bank, the town and the state on the map by advertising in an unusual way.

Whenever a waiter presents a check in the dining room, Mr. Langley brings out a pair of scissors and a roll of green paper, clips off a $5 bank note, signs it with his fountain pen and pays the check. The captains and waiters know their business and accept Mr. Langley's money-making stunt without a lift of the eyebrows. The bank notes are already signed by the cashier of the California bank.

Opportunity in Syria.

From the comparatively few letters that pass the rigid censorship of the Turkish government, the Presbyterian board in the United States learns that the work of the Syria mission is going on as usual. The boys' schools have not as large attendance as in ordinary years, owing to the fact that so many homes have suffered financial losses. The girls' school, however, at Beirut, has more applicants than it can take care of. This is because of the fact that the schools carried on by missionaries of other nationalities, such as the French and English, have been closed and the missionaries sent away. Their pupils have consequently knocked and not in vain at the door of the American Girls' school in Beirut.

FOR STREET CAR DRIVERS

Device That Enables Motorman to Tell at a Glance If He Is Running on Time.

A time-schedule indicator particularly useful for motormen, is being employed on an English street car line. The central portion of the device consists of an ordinary clock. About the face of the clock is a large circular frame into which is fitted a cardboard ring. This is divided by radiating lines into 60 equal segments corresponding to the minutes of the hour. The names of the stops on the motorman's trip are written in clockwise order on this ring. The number of spaces separating the names corresponds to the number of minutes apart these points are on the schedule. The cardboard is then placed in the frame so that, at the time of starting, the minute hand of the clock will point to the name of the place where the journey begins. As the trip continues the motorman can tell at a glance whether he is ahead or behind his schedule. If desired, the return journey can be indicated on the other side of the cardboard. In case the trip is of more than an hour's duration a second ring can be inserted at the end of the first hour.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

To Amuse Children.

So much has been written regarding entertainment for little folk on rainy days one would suppose all had been said. Not so, for little people will take great delight in the following pastime, which is so easy that the mother will feel well repaid:

Take an old magazine, on its pages carefully paste cuttings, some news illustrations, which make the book quite attractive. Save the fairy and other stories which are published in the Sunday newspapers; ask a friend or two to do the same; supply the children with blunt-pointed scissors and a jar of paste. The result will be many happy hours and an amusing as well as instructive book.

Of course, a blank book or a scrapbook is more substantial, but for economy and pastime an old magazine will answer. Pictures from old calendars are good, as they usually picture some noted spot about which mother or nurse can readily weave some story starting with the time-honored "once upon a time."

UGH! A DOSE OF NASTY CALOMEL

It salivates! It makes you sick and you may lose a day's work.

You're bilious, sluggish, constipated and believe you need vile, dangerous calomel to start your liver and clean your bowels.

Here's my guarantee! Ask your druggist for a 50 cent bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone and take a spoonful tonight. If it doesn't start your liver and straighten you right up better than calomel and without griping or making you sick I want you to go back to the store and get your money.

Take calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak and sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work. Take a spoonful of harmless, vegetable Dodson's Liver Tone tonight and wake up feeling great. It's perfectly harmless, so give it to your children any time. It can't salivate, so let them eat anything afterwards.—Adv.

TRUE AT THE LAST

Wolf-Dog Deserted Master, But Still Loved Him.

Answered "Call of His Fathers," Though He Proved Loyal When Loyalty Meant Death by the Fangs of His Pack.

He had been called Wolf since puppyhood. He stood nearly forty inches, with a small ragged, rail-like body, and unusually long legs that ended in great, soft, padlike feet. Jack Stern, Steve Wormell's partner, used to say that the dog could not turn round in their "two-by-four" cabin without knocking over the table and chairs and seriously endangering the stove and other furniture.

One evening, as Steve and Jack sat playing a game of cribbage in their ranger cabin, a wolf howled lugubriously from the mountain side. After a moment came the answer; then another caught up the call, and another, until the lonesome wail echoed from mountain top to mountain top.

Suddenly there came a howl, nearer and more deep-throated.

Stern opened the door. "Come here, Steve!" he said, and the ranger stepped to his side.

On a small, treeless mound, not far from the cabin, sat Wolf. He was squatting on his haunches, with his nose pointed toward the sky, while from his throat came a cry quite unlike his usual howl.

"It's the call of his fathers, Steve," said Jack. "Some day you'll have no dog; he'll be gone with the pack."

Steve laughed at the idea. He had brought Wolf, an awkward, bench-legged puppy, out to the ranger cabin in a sack; the dog had always been faithful and contented with his lot.

But one morning in the spring Wolf was missing.

At first Steve clung to the hope that Wolf would return when the "running" season was over. He had heard of dogs doing that. But spring merged into summer, and summer into fall, yet the dog did not come back.

Then they began to hear that Wolf had been seen running at the head of a small band of wolves, although they never found a man who had actually seen him.

About Christmas time, when the snow was deeper than for many winters past, prowling bands of wolves began to come down near the camp.

One day Steve found that a large bull elk had been killed within a mile of camp. Signs of the struggle were to be seen for a hundred yards round. Near the scattered bones of the elk were the disemboweled remains of two wolves. A little farther along a young cow elk had fallen beneath the fangs of the mountain bandits. And at each kill Steve found a large track, twice the size of that made by a common wolf.

When the snow had crusted so that it would bear up the weight of a man, Steve threw his rifle across his arm and walked over to the breaks of the Grande Ronde. He was nearing the broken lands when the sound of a running pack came to his ears. A moment later a small band of wolves, perhaps fifteen in number, burst from the timber, running toward him. And at their head ran Wolf.

The ranger forgot his danger. He cried, "Wolf, don't you know me?" The sound of his voice brought the great dog to a standstill, and the pack stopped with him. Nose in the air, sides aquiver, he stood a moment; then, with a low bay of recognition, he sprang toward his one-time master.

The pack, evidently mistaking their leader's intention, likewise rushed at Steve. And the next instant, with his gun clubbed, he was in the midst of a snarling, snapping mass of famine-crazed wolves.

When Jack arrived on the scene he found Steve sitting in the snow, with the shaggy head of Wolf pillowed in his lap. Around him, with their manly pelts torn and bloody, lay half a dozen dead wolves.

The ranger's clothing was torn to shreds and one arm and leg were a mass of cuts and gashes; but there were tears in his eyes.

"He fought for me, Jack," he said, pressing the stiffening lids over the glazed eyes of the dead hound. "He gave his life for me. How he fought! And against his own blood, too. Yonder lies one of his own pups. Why shouldn't I love him?"—Youth's Companion.

What, Indeed!

It was a very serious conversation that was overheard by a number of passengers of a street car the other night. Two young girls of the "giddy" type were conversing about the possibilities of the United States getting into trouble with Mexico.

"Well, I certainly would hate to see all the American soldiers go down into Mexico," one girl said.

"Why?" her companion inquired.

"Because, while the soldiers were down in Mexico what would prevent the Europeans from coming over here and getting us girls?"—Columbus (O.) Dispatch.

Price of Boll Weevils.

In one of the counties in Alabama a cent apiece is being offered for boll weevils, and they are cheap at that price. A boll weevil, if let alone, will not take long to destroy several dollars' worth of cotton, and if he can be disposed of for a cent the investment is a good one.—Memphis News-Scimitar.

THE REPEATER PAR EXCELLENCE

ITS GLORY HAS DEPARTED

The Sausage, Declares the Government, Isn't What It Was Fifty Years Ago.

A half a century ago sausage sized and burst. On a cold fall evening it diffused a pleasing aroma through the house, and the children, drawn to the kitchen by an irresistible compulsion, were quite sure to get underfoot—which was the great childish crime.

Sausage was then at the zenith of its power. It had all seasons for its own, but preferably the fall and the winter of our content. When you say that it sizzled in the pan, you have said much. Sometimes it was necessary to prick it with a fork, lest it burst and send the hot fat flying about the stove. The odor of sage was in the air and the prepared sausage had about it a crispy, frizzly, saggy "bite" that was delicious.

But how changed! How fallen from its high estate! Sometimes, we are led to fear, never to rise again. "Commercialism" insinuated its way into the sausage trade, the false commercialism of the writers on political economy. Chopped beef took its place on the links beside the pig, and it has even been said that considerable water was forced into this unnatural federation. Be that as it may, somewhere about the time of the Caliphate of Ben Harrison sausage lost its sizzle. Appeals to the meat men seem to be of little effect, though here and there gleams of hope are held out to the hand only to become apples of Sodom to the teeth.

Some of the savants who have studied the subject find that in the old days there was youth, and the appetite that waits on wood sawed in the open air, mixed into the ingredients of the sausage. But this cannot be so, for the children of today show by their actions that sausage is simply food, set on the table, and on a par with all other foods. They eat it, and make no comment.

No, sausage has changed!—Minneapolis Journal.

Jews as Farmers.

The back-to-the-farm movement among American Jews is being pushed with the energy and ability for which the race is noted, and the 50,000 Jewish farmers now so engaged are doubtless but the pioneers of an army of peace which in a few years will number many hundred thousand. In the opinion of a prominent delegate to the recent conference of Jewish farmers in New York city the Jews engaged in farming in this country are doing more good by blazing the pathway of practical agriculture for the immigrant than the 1,000,000 Jewish people engaged in business, the arts and professions. "That is rather overstating it, no doubt, but it is overstating an important truth," according to another commentator.

Restraint Needed. "What have you to say for yourself?" asked the judge of the prisoner at the bar.

"Just this, your honor; I'm afflicted with a dual personality. Good and evil are constantly at war within me and the crime of which I am accused was committed when my better self had been overthrown."

"In that case, the best place for you is a prison cell, where even if your evil side does triumph occasionally, it will only result in a minor infraction of the rules; two years."

Admiration and Authority.

"Would you like to see your wife go into politics and be a boss?"

"Certainly," replied Meekton. "I'd really enjoy having Henrietta step in and show some of these practical politicians what a real boss is like."—Washington Star.

Activities of Women.

On the marriage of a woman in England she adopts the same nationality as her husband.

A New Orleans national bank has elected two women as members of its board of directors.

Mrs. Ida McQueen, recently elected head of the public schools of Tacoma, Wash., is the first woman to ever hold the position.

Over 30,000 women have taken the places of men in France, thus enabling 81 per cent of the factories in that country to run on full time.

Miss Fanny Bixley, daughter of a millionaire land owner of California, has for several years acted as a special police and probation officer at Long Beach, Cal., where she lives.

The Colony Club building in New York has inaugurated a novel feature for women. It is a checking room with maids and kennels for the safe and sanitary housing of the members' pet dogs while their mistresses are enjoying the privileges of the club.

Backward Lover.

It was Easter eve in leap year, and the young thing, who had been receiving long but somewhat unsatisfactory visits from the very shy young man, decided she might take a chance. Robert had brought her a splendid Easter lily.

"I'll give you a kiss for that lily," she promised, blushing.

The exchange was duly, not to say happily, made. Robert started hurriedly toward the door.

"Why, where are you going?" asked his girl in surprise.

"To the florist's for more lilies!" he replied.—Life.

WHY WOMEN WRITE LETTERS

To Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co.

Women who are well often ask "Are the letters which the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. are continually publishing genuine?" "Are they truthful?" "Why do women write such letters?"

In answer we say that never have we published a fictitious letter or name. Never, knowingly, have we published an untruthful letter, or one without the full and written consent of the woman who wrote it.

The reason that thousands of women from all parts of the country write such grateful letters to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. is that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has brought health and happiness into their lives, once burdened with pain and suffering.

It has relieved women from some of the worst forms of female ills, from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, irregularities, nervousness, weakness, stomach troubles and from the blues.

It is impossible for any woman who is well and who has never suffered to realize how these poor, suffering women feel when restored to health; their keen desire to help other women who are suffering as they did.

"Wets" Make Washington The New Goat!

WELL, we've had six months of prohibition. And I can't find those miles of empty stores.

I think six months is a sufficiently long period from which to draw conclusions as to effects of the law on business. Frankly, I don't intend to concern myself much with the morals of prohibition. They say that—

"By their fruits ye shall know them!"

If that's the case the morals of prohibition may be determined by the things that have happened under the law.

In several states, three of which are Montana, California and Missouri, advertisements and news articles are appearing daily in newspapers, much similar in construction and tone to the advertisements and arguments against prohibition which appeared in the columns of The Times prior to the "dry" election in Washington.

There isn't so much being said about the evil effects of prohibition on Kansas as was in the advertisements that appeared in Seattle.

Perhaps this is due to the fact that the men responsible for the "wet" publicity have found out what I have—that it isn't safe to base any arguments against prohibition on conditions in that state. On the contrary, I have become convinced that the results of prohibition in Kansas are about as powerful arguments for the "drys" as they could possibly desire!

But here's the pinch, coming in the exact spot I expected it to when I gave an interview to The Kansas City Star, insisting that Seattle was better off under the dry law: Seattle and the state of Washington have been picked as substitute horrible examples.—Maj. Bluthen-Seattle Times.

Hiram Johnson For U. S. Senator

THAT EVERY RUSE is being used by Mr. Booth to gather votes at the coming primary election is evidenced by the following letter sent to Mayor Simpson of Pacific Grove by Mr. Booth in answer to certain questions concerning his candidacy. Mr. Booth is quoted as saying: "Permit me to say, in response to your inquiry, that there appears to be no fundamental difference between the Progressive and Republican platforms, as adopted at the Chicago conventions. I am heartily in accord with the Republican national platform, and, inasmuch as its essential qualities are identical with the Progressive platform, the latter is, of course, not an issue, owing to the fact that the Progressive national organization has endorsed Hughes and Fairbanks."

Now comes the same Mr. Booth stumping the state declaring that it is iniquitous for Hiram Johnson to seek the Republican nomination because of the tremendous difference between Republicanism and Progressivism. Consistency is a virtue that Mr. Booth evidently overlooked or else he forgot about that letter. In either case he is not the man for so great a responsibility as the office he seeks carries. Gov. Hiram W. Johnson is the biggest man in California today and these times demand big men. Mr. Johnson has made California one of the most progressive states in the Union and the rest of the union is eagerly watching this election to see if California is wise enough to uphold her big progressive man, Hiram Johnson, or backslide to the reactionary.

Chicks in Demand

J. H. Stubbe, of the Campbell Poultry Ranch shipped about 2000 baby chicks last week and about 1000 this week. His hatchery will produce about 1000 to 1500 per week until Christmas.

Most of these are to be raised for broilers. From now until February broilers and fryers will be in great demand, shortly after Christmas bringing as high as 45c per pound.

Poultrymen are commencing to utilize their buildings and yards for Fall brooding, rather than let them remain idle from one Spring hatch to the next. All that is necessary is to give the building a thorough cleaning and freshen the ground by sowing grain of some kind.

In from two to four months the youngsters are ready for market. Poultrymen in this locality should compete very favorably with inland valleys, as we have low express rates to San Francisco and do not have the excessive heat to contend with.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Beard were among the Santa Cruz visitors Sunday. They had Miss Ruby Crow as their guest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Ainsley took the G. S. Robson and H. C. Smith families to the Campbell lumber camp in the Santa Cruz Mts. today for a days out-

Methodist Church Notes

The pastor will present the budget plan for the new year, Sunday morning. All our people should be present to give the budget a good start and save the finance committee time and labor to that extent.

There will be no evening service, Sunday, that all may attend the closing service of Mr. Atkinson as pastor of the Congregational church.

Will all the officers of the church please take notice that the Official Board will meet Wednesday evening, August 30, instead of one week later. This will be the last regular meeting of the Board this year, and we should have a full attendance that all matters may be properly cared for before the close of the year.

The Biederwolf evangelistic meetings in San Jose will be opened September 10th in the large tabernacle on East Santa Clara St.

The Annual Conference will meet at Santa Cruz, Sept. 13th.

Local and Personal

Farming Implements for sale: Mrs. B. E. Herrington.

Mrs. C. H. Antriff arrived Tuesday evening from Los Angeles for a visit with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Rodeck and family.

Campbell students who plan to matriculate at College of Pacific this fall are, Ira Beal, Ben Rodeck, Clare Bryant, Charles Lloyd, William Ludwig and Life Price.

Frank Mendel has given up his work at the Cannery for this season, preparatory to registering at Stanford, where he will attend this year. Leslie LaMontagne, another member of the 1916 class, is also planning to enroll at Stanford.

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Higbie arrived home Sunday night from their hunting and fishing trip in Mendocino county. They report a most enjoyable time with good hunting and fishing. They made 540 miles in their machine without a puncture which is going some.

Excavation for the basement of the new grammar school has been begun and work will be pushed as rapidly as may be to insure good results. The trustees made a careful survey of the plans with the contractor, by which they eliminated a few details that reduced the cost of construction about $400, which can be used toward furnishings and equipment.

Garden Fete Friday

One of the coming events of the social season at Campbell is the Garden Party to be given September 1st, under the auspices of the Johnson Avenue Improvement Club.

An extensive and elaborate entertainment has been arranged for both afternoon and evening. The different features will be staged at the homes of H. W. Higbie, Mrs. Lillie Shaw, and G. W. Snyder, all cornering on Johnson and Campbell avenues.

Those who enjoy cards will have an opportunity to amuse themselves along that line, both afternoon and evening at Mrs. Higbie's home. There will be an Indian Teepee with an archery contest for children in the afternoon.

A Betsy Ross tea room will be found at Mrs. Shaw's where one may be regaled with a refreshing cup of tea. In the meantime a Fashion Show will be in progress at the Snyder home, where there will also be an Hawaiian Pavilion with Hawaiian music at 3 p. m.

Supper will be served from 5 to 8 in the Higbie house to the south of H. W. Higbie's.

In addition to the card party there will be a program and dancing at Mr. Snyder's, beginning at 8 o'clock.

With all these varied forms of entertainment and amusement, every one will find something to his taste.

The club is planning to erect a pretty Interurban station at the intersection of Johnson and Campbell avenues, for which the proceeds of the Garden Party will be used.

Banks Aid

Hog-Breeding

H. C. Carr, chairman of the committee on agricultural education and development of the State Bankers' Association, is authority for the statement that plans have been worked out through which banks will loan school-boys money on their personal notes for the purchase and feeding according to scientific methods of pure bred hogs.

The money will be available this fall.

Delbert Billiou was in Campbell Wednesday, shaking hands with old friends. He will enter San Jose high this fall.

W. J. Rice and daughter, Miss Zadie, left yesterday on a two month's visit to Tennessee. They went via Denver and will stop in Nebraska, where Mr. Rice has a son living.

Reed and James Hall, who had been employed at the Stone gravel crusher for some time, left Campbell recently, the former going to Canada and the latter back East.

September 4th has been set as the date for the opening of the Campbell Grammar school. All pupils are urged to be present on the opening day so that no one will start in handicapped by a late enrollment. The faculty this year remains unchanged with one exception; W. B. Kammerer, principal, Miss Mattie Sawyer, Miss Minnie Atkinson, Miss Phoebe Farley, and Miss Mabel Thompson, who takes Miss Mary Clark's place.

Miss Alice Dillon, teacher of English in Selma high school, has been visiting Miss Charlotte Davis during the past week, and greatly enjoyed motoring with the family over to Mt. Hermon, Felton, Big Trees, Sempervirens Park, Saratoga, Los Gatos, and Stanford. Miss Dillon had never visited Santa Clara valley before and was quite charmed with its varied attractions.

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed, you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.
